

THE ROCKEFELLER UNIVERSITY

Luncheon in the Great Hall. From 1929 through the 1960s, the Great Hall served as Rockefeller's faculty dining room, where investigators gathered each day for lunch. Conversations that began around the dining table sometimes led to paradigm-changing discoveries.

On the Cover: Recognition Dinner for Longtime Rockefeller University Employees, Welch Hall, 2013. The traditional Employee Recognition Dinner was held this year in the Great Hall, located in the Anne T. and Robert M. Bass Center for Community Life. In September 2013, the University celebrated the restoration of historic Welch Hall and the creation of the Bass Center.
